Why Blomdahl?

Blomdahl Medical Ear Piercing is the safest! Our system is developed entirely upon what is known as "modern aseptic technique" within the health care industry. This means that all our products and methods are safely designed to avoid the spreading of infections during piercing. Our piercing studs are developed in consultation with skin specialists and suitable for everyone, even if one already has an allergy. You can choose to pierce with piercing studs made from carefully selected plastic or titanium of pure medical quality.

Blomdahl's Medical Plastic and Medical Grade Titanium ear piercing studs are encapsulated in sterilized, disposable cassettes. Our studs are lightweight and designed for maximum air circulation, two features to facilitate healing. Medical Plastic contains no nickel which ensures zero nickel exposure. This eliminates the risk of developing nickel allergy. Medical Plastic is recommended for anyone who wants to avoid developing nickel allergy or for anyone that already has a nickel sensitivity. Medical Grade Titanium is the safest of all metals because it binds what little nickel there is extremely well. In other words, little or no nickel is released into the skin and underlying tissue.

Offer families a safe ear piercing alternative!

When Blomdahl's safe ear piercing system is combined with the privacy and professionalism of a medical exam room a unique "medical ear piercing" experience is created. The demand from American families for a safe ear piercing option – medical ear piercing – is well established. Blomdahl has been the leading supplier to American pediatricians for over 15 years and this market has continued to grow. In fact, the demand is far greater than the availability. If promoted, Blomdahl Medical Ear Piercing will resonate with your community. Many parents would greatly prefer to visit your office for a safe ear piercing rather than deal with the uncertainty of the mall or the environment of a tattoo/piercing parlor.
