Association of Reproductive Managers

connect.asrm.org/ARM

Mission:

The Association of Reproductive Managers is committed to advancing the art and science of fertility practice management through leadership, research, and education. ARM's mission is to create a forum through which fertility program business managers and physicians can form nationwide interrelationships to keep abreast of critical fertility practice management issues; to provide educational programs designed to help advanced assisted reproductive technology (ART) programs improve the operations of their practices from both internal and external standpoints including planning, marketing, and financial functions; to solve management problems including the identification and correction of deficiencies; and to provide guidelines for enhancement of the organization's capabilities.

Typical Members:

Senior Administrators, Business Managers, Medical Directors, Practice Administrators, Marketing Personnel

Why You Should Join:

From finance to human resources, to marketing to patient service, ARM members are an important resource for best practices in fertility management. In addition to access to other members through networking events and discussion lists, ARM members receive a registration discount on the annual ARM National Meeting.

Mental Health Professional Group

connect.asrm.org/MHPG

Mission:

The Mental Health Professional Group is a group of professionals dedicated to enhancing knowledge and understanding of psychological and emotional aspects of reproductive health. These professionals are involved in education of the public and professional community, as well as research to help answer questions that new reproductive technology brings.

Typical Members:

Psychologists, Therapists, Social Workers

Why You Should Join:

"Connected" is the word that best describes members of MHPG! The group hosts discussion groups, a member directory, a virtual bookshelf of member publications, regional dinners, and networking events. In addition, MHPG works with ASRM to develop educational opportunities for mental health professionals. MHPG members have access to the MHPG Certificate Course, available in the ASRM airLearning™ catalog.

Legal Professional Group

connect.asrm.org/LPG

Mission:

The purpose of the Legal Professional Group is to raise awareness of, and clarify, the legal issues surrounding assisted reproductive technologies. LPG is committed to promoting ethical legal policies, practices, and protections for ART families, third-party collaborators, and providers. It also seeks to promote access to, and affordability of, health care for those affected by infertility, reproductive or genetic disorders, and other challenges to their family-building goals. LPG strives to enhance and contribute to the development of sound law in this evolving field through advocacy, education and legislative initiatives.

Typical Members:

Attorneys, Practice Managers, Medical Directors, Mental Health Professionals

Why You Should Join:

When the attorneys speak, healthcare providers listen! LPG members offer expertise that influences educational content, ethics guidelines, practice guidelines, and advocacy efforts. Members connect via discussion groups and networking events at the ASRM Scientific Congress & Expo.

Nurses' Professional Group

connect.asrm.org/NPG

Mission:

The Nurses' Professional Group is composed of nurse members of ASRM. The purpose of the NPG is to foster the Society's goals within the practice of professional nursing. The NPG is committed to improving patient care and providing a forum for networking and exchanging information among nurses.

Typical Members:

Fertility Nurses, Nursing Managers, Clinical Managers, Advanced Practice Providers

Why You Should Join:

NPG members benefit from specialty educational offerings developed by members for members. In addition to online and in-person education, NPG members connect via discussion groups, networking events, and newsletters.

Genetic Counseling Professional Group

connect.asrm.org/GCPG

Mission:

The purpose of the Genetic Counseling Professional Group shall be to establish an organized presence of genetic counselors and related professionals within the American Society for Reproductive Medicine (ASRM), provide genetic counseling resources to ASRM and serve as a liaison to the National Society of Genetic Counselors (NSGC), generate a presentation track on genetic counseling topics at ASRM Scientific Congress & Expos, and encourage membership and participation of genetic counselors within ASRM.

Typical Members:

Genetic Counselors; related professionals with an interest in genetic counseling

Why You Should Join:

Genetic counseling and testing are playing an increasingly prominent role in ART! GCPG members help shape the genetics content at ASRM conferences, participate in writing practice guidelines and provide expertise to other PGs.
