About Us

At Seattle Children's, compassionate care, breakthrough research and generous donors come together every day for children who need us.

Ranked as one of the top children's hospitals in the country by U.S. News & World Report, we serve as the pediatric and adolescent academic medical center for Washington, Alaska, Montana and Idaho — the largest region of any children's hospital in the country.

As one of the nation's top five pediatric research centers, we understand that finding a potential cure in a lab isn't enough. With one million square feet of clinical, laboratory and office space, a research team of over 1,800 people and over $200 million in total extramural funding for the 2020 fiscal year, we are working toward the next wave of lifesaving discoveries.

Seattle Children's Foundation works with the Seattle Children's Guild Association, the largest all-volunteer fundraising network for any hospital in the country, to gather community support and raise funds for uncompensated care, hospital programs, research and much more.

We provide hope, care and cures to help every child live the healthiest and most fulfilling life possible.

BREAKTHROUGH RESEARCH

At the forefront of pediatric medical research, the research division at Seattle Children's is working to cure childhood disease and improve outcomes for children all over the world. The division consists of Seattle Children's Research Institute and Seattle Children's Therapeutics, and is internationally recognized for its work in cancer therapies, genetics, neuroscience, immunology, infectious disease and bioethics.

COMPASSIONATE CARE

For more than 100 years, Seattle Children's Hospital has specialized in meeting the unique physical, emotional and developmental needs of children from infancy through young adulthood. Through the collaboration of physicians in nearly 60 pediatric subspecialties, we provide inpatient, outpatient, diagnostic, surgical, rehabilitative, behavioral, emergency and outreach services — regardless of a family's ability to pay.

GENEROUS DONORS

Seattle Children's was initially founded and run by a group of philanthropic women more than 100 years ago. Their generous spirit can be seen today in the support of thousands of donors and guild members, and it's their support that ultimately makes it possible for our care and research teams to come together — raising funds to ultimately create better futures for our patients.
