

New Phytologist
Tansley Medal
For excellence in plant science

New Phytologist Tansley Medal

For excellence in plant science

Attention all early career scientists!

Your CV needs a Tansley Medal

Win £2000 (GBP) and have your work highlighted in New Phytologist, one of the world's leading plant science journals

- The Tansley Medal is awarded annually in recognition of an outstanding contribution to research in plant science
- This is a global competition open to all plant scientists in the early stages of their career and includes both students and researchers with up to five years' experience since gaining their PhD
- Selection will include a two-stage process that is based on the scientific achievements of the candidate and a short review article intended for publication
- All competition articles that are accepted after peer-review will be published in New Phytologist and the Tansley Medal winner selected by the judges from these final papers

New Phytologist

Full details, terms and conditions at:

www.newphytologist.org/tansleymedal

Spread the word! Send this postcard to someone who you think should apply.