Introducing RQI for NRP

NRP now includes the innovative Resuscitation Quality Improvement® (RQI®) learning method as an option for NRP Essentials and Advanced Endorsement.

Bringing together the latest science from the American Academy of Pediatrics with mastery learning and quality improvement technology from the American Heart Association and Laerdal Medical, all delivered via an on-site simulation station, healthcare providers are continuously improving and retaining skills.

NRP complements a full suite of curricula available through RQI including Healthcare Provider BLS, ALS, PALS and Responder.

An NRP Provider's Journey to Verified Competence in PPV Skills on a Simulator

Learners start with a preparation or entry assignment featuring True Adaptive™ learning – a personalized method tailored to individual knowledge and confidence levels. True Adaptive learning adjusts to the learner's competence and performance in real-time.

Each quarter, in a low-dose, high-frequency model, cognitive and skills sessions assess learner's recall, application, and practice of the NRP algorithm, positive pressure ventilation (PPV), and MR. SOPA.

Skills are performed at the RQI for NRP Simulation Station on-site. Cognitive activities are online in a responsive design that adjusts to the learner's various device formats.

RQI for NRP provides:

- Self-directed learning with real-time feedback and debriefing to understand how to improve skills related to PPV
- RQI Analytics for Administrators and Educators that provide visibility to learner performance and compliance at the organization, department, or learner level
- Ease of administration and operational efficiencies that reduce administrative burden
