

Who we are

TeamHealth grew from a small company established by physicians to a national physician group and a leader in clinical integration. With clinicians providing care in emergency medicine, hospital medicine, critical care and a number of other specialties, we believe our teams work better together.

Grow your career

As a TeamHealth critical care clinician, you have access to a community of clinicians to support your clinical development, including opportunities to grow with us into local, regional and national leadership roles. With clinicians at every level of leadership at TeamHealth, we are dedicated to providing opportunities and resources to help those who aspire to grow their professional development and leadership career.

Strength in numbers

TeamHealth's national network of over 15,000 clinicians allows you to grow alongside the best in critical care medicine as part of a community of clinicians that care as much as you do. You have the support of a world-class critical care team in the ICU, plus the benefits of a national network of critical care clinicians who share and shape best practices.

Plan work around your life

To attract the best, we make sure clinicians have manageable caseloads and the right resources and team members by their sides to ensure patients receive the best possible care.

Lifesaving care from an elite team

In the ICU, every moment counts, and you depend on your team to help you deliver lifesaving care when patients need it most. As an emerging physician group in the field of critical care, TeamHealth understands the importance of being part of a team that has your back.
