Our world has changed. When a person is arrested today, four out of five times, drugs are involved. Two out of three times, they have mental health issues. Half of the time, they have pre-existing conditions. Arrestees are in their most fragile state, and officers have to go from arrest to rescue in the blink of an eye.

WE NEED NEW TOOLS

Custody Protect detects health crises in detained individuals and alerts officers before it is too late.

Custody Protect is a combination of sensors applied to the wrist or ankle, mobile apps, command center dashboards, and cloud-based artificial intelligence software that continuously monitors people during arrest, transport, and incarceration.

Attach to your custody's wrist or ankle, and monitor.
